“The Qur’an and Islamic Law” presented by Abdullahi Ahmed An-Na’im,
Emory Law School

Sun Sep 30, 2012, 7:30PM - 9:00PM

Location: Room 1140

Prof. An-Na'im will examine the historical nature and role of the Qur'an as the primary source of the normative system of Islam, in contrast to post-colonial emphasis on its role as the main "source" of "Islamic law". Locating this analysis within his broader argument in favor of a secular state from an Islamic perspective, and against the enactment of Sharia as positive law of the state, Prof. An-Na'im views this recent development as undermining the religious and spiritual role of the Qur'an and inhibiting the necessarily dynamic nature of law.

Abdullahi Ahmed An-Na'im originally from Sudan, is Charles Howard Candler Professor of Law at Emory Law School. An internationally recognized scholar of Islam and human rights, and human rights in cross-cultural perspectives, Professor An-Na'im teaches courses in human rights, religion and human rights, Islamic law, and criminal law.

The Qur'an Seminar is sponsored by the College of Arts and Letters' Institute for Scholarship in the Liberal Arts, the Notre Dame Law School's Program on Church, State, and Society, The Center for Civil and Human Rights, and the Mellon Foundation's Sawyer Seminars.

A reception will follow the lecture.

The American Congress: Legal Implications of Gridlock. Presented by the Notre Dame Law Review

Fri Nov 16, 2012, 8:00AM - 5:00PM

Location: McCartan Courtroom

The American Congress: Legal Implications of Gridlock. Part of the 2012-2013 Notre Dame Forum: A More Perfect Union.

Former U.S. Congressman Thomas Allen will serve as the keynote speaker at this symposium hosted by the Notre Dame Law Review. The Symposium will focus broadly on congressional gridlock, exploring various aspects of the issue from partisanship and civility to the utilization of the appropriations process to legislate. We hope to explore these and other facets of the topic against the backdrop of the 2012 election and current congressional inaction. Three panels of legal scholars will present and discuss issues surrounding congressional gridlock and its legal implications.

Lecture by Professor Brett Frischmann, Cardozo School of Law Fri Nov 9, 2012, 12:30PM - 2:00PM

Location: Room 1130

LAMB will host Brett Frischmann, Professor of Law at Cardozo School of Law, who will give a public talk on his recently published and widely praised book INFRASTRUCTURE: THE SOCIAL VALUE OF SHARED RESOURCES. The book devotes much needed attention to understanding how society benefits from infrastructure resources and how management decisions affect a wide variety of interests. The book links infrastructure, a particular set of resources defined in terms of the manner in which they create value, with commons, a resource management principle by which a resource is shared within a community. The infrastructure commons ideas have broad implications for scholarship and public policy across many fields ranging from traditional infrastructure like roads to environmental economics to intellectual property to internet policy.

Click for more information

Stanford Law Professor Mark Lemley described Frischmann's book as "timely and important. What he is attempting here is nothing less than a reimagining of how economics thinks about infrastructure. His argument ranges from intellectual property to telecommunications to the case for government investment in roads and bridges." And according to the late Elinor Ostrom, Nobel Prize winner in Economics, faculty and students across the social sciences and engineering will all find Brett Frischmann's new book to provide essential guidance for the analysis of diverse types of infrastructure resources and how policies affect the effectiveness, efficiency, fairness, and sustainability of outcomes. Rarely can one find such a broad and useful foundation for digging in and understanding the complexities of modern infrastructures. An extraordinary book."

More information on the book can be found at <http://www.brettfrischmann.com/infrastructure>. Book.

- Dr. Amelia Fletcher (OFT)
- Dr. Andrea Coscelli (OFCEM)
- Dr. Cristina Caffarra (CRA)
- Dr. Peter Davies (Compass Lexecon)
- Paolo Siciliani (Chief Economist, BBC Trust)
- Professor Christopher Leslie (University of California at Irvine School of Law)
- Professor Maurice Stucke (University of Tennessee School of Law)
- Chief Executive David Saunders (UK Competition Commission) (TBC)
- Prof. Avishalom Tor (Notre Dame Law School)
- Dr. Ioannis Lianos (UCL)

CCHR: Visiting Speaker Steve Ratner Mon Jan 28, 2013, 12:30PM - 1:30PM

Location: Room 1140

"The Thin Justice of International Law"

Though philosophers of global justice often stay clear of legal institutions, international law plays a critical role in understanding the prospects for global justice. The core rules of international law have their own morality and represent a real-world incarnation of a vision of global justice. That ethical vision is one that Mr. Ratner terms "thin" justice. While not the limit of justice for which we should strive, it is justice deserving of the name and consistent with a cosmopolitan vision of the world. After explaining his notion of thin justice, Mr. Ratner will use self-determination as an example of a core international law that meets the standard of thin justice.

Steven R. Ratner is the Bruno Simma Collegiate Professor of Law at the University of Michigan Law School. His teaching and research focus on public international law and on a range of challenges facing governments and international institutions since the Cold War, including ethnic conflict, border disputes, counter-terrorism strategies, corporate and state duties regarding foreign investment, and accountability for human rights violations. Prof. Ratner has written and lectured extensively on the law of war and is also interested in the intersection of international law and moral philosophy and other theoretical issues. Since 2009, he has served on the State Department's Advisory Committee on International Law. Prof. Ratner holds a JD from Yale, an MA (diplôme) from the Institut Universitaire de Hautes Etudes Internationales (Geneva), and an AB from Princeton.

Lunch will be served.

Center for Civil and Human Rights Visiting Speaker: Dr. Seyed Masoud Noori

Location: Room 1140

On February 1, 2013, The Center for Civil and Human Rights hosted Dr. Seyed Masoud Noori, former Faculty member of Department of Law, Mohl University (Qom, Iran) and Member of Academic Council of the Center for Human Rights Studies (CHRS).

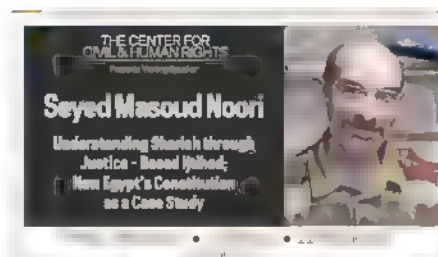

One of most important and challenging debates in Muslim world, from North Africa to Middle East and South Asia is the relation between "Shariah" and "State Law". In sensitive times such as when preparing a new constitution or enactment of a new family law, this question becomes a critical issue. Beginning with a review of the concept of "Shariah", its bases and sources, as well as "ijtihad" the method of understanding Shariah, Dr. Noori focused on "Justice-Based Ijtihad" as a bridge between "Shariah" and "Human Rights" and examined the results of this theoretical debate on the 2012 Constitution of Egypt.

Dr. Noori has served as Deputy Director and Director of Research and Education for the CHRS. His interests include comparative studies between Islam (with special emphasis on Shia school) and International Human Rights Law, and legal clinical education. In April 2007 he and his colleagues in CHRS founded the first academic legal clinic in Iran.

The talk was co-sponsored by the University of Notre Dame's Kellogg Institute for International Studies and the Center for Civil and Human Rights.

LAMB Conference: Behavioral Law and Economics: Substance and Methodology

Location: Room 2130

For several decades, one of the leading approaches to legal theory has been the economic analysis of law. The theory of human behavior underlying standard economic analysis of law (like economic analysis more generally) is the rational choice theory. According to this theory, people strive to enhance their own well-being, choosing the available option that would maximize their expected utility. In the past two decades or so, hand-in-hand with comparable developments in economics, the economic analysis of law has been challenged by a growing body of experimental and empirical studies attesting to prevalent and systematic deviations from the assumptions of economic rationality. These studies have questioned both the assumption of fully cognitive rationality (by showing that people's preferences often do not comply with the rules of dominance, transitivity, and invariance) and the assumption of thick motivational rationality (by pointing to the role of motivations such as envy and altruism).

Increasingly perceived as the antithesis to standard law and economics, over time these insights have been largely integrated into mainstream economic analysis of law, thereby establishing a new field of inquiry: behavioral law and economics. Behavioral insights can have particular value for legal analysis, as legal scholars are often interested in real-life policy making, which must take into account people's actual behavioral characteristics. Moreover, the growing influence of behavioral law and economics has been accompanied in recent years by the emergence of empirical and experimental legal studies. Rather than only draw on the results of experiments and empirical studies in the social sciences, a steadily growing number of researchers now engage in experimental and empirical studies designed specifically to answer questions that are of special interest to legal scholarship.

The dramatic growth and influence of behavioral and experimental law and economics deserves close study and attention, to which this conference is devoted. Specifically, the conference builds on the contribution of leading scholars in the field to a first-of-its-kind "Handbook on Behavioral Economics and the Law" that will be published by Oxford University Press, offering a unique forum to examine the state-of-the-art of behavioral analysis throughout the law, its methodology and future challenges.

Lewers Lecture: "The Moral and Political Reconstruction of Broken Societies: 30 years of Transitional Justice Worldwide" Presented by Professor José Zalaquett.

Location: Room 1130

José Zalaquett, Professor of Human Rights Law, University of Chile, Santiago will deliver the CCHR Annual Lecture in honor of Fr. William Lewers.

The title of Prof. Zalaquett's talk will be "The Moral and Political Reconstruction of Broken Societies: 30 years of Transitional Justice Worldwide."

In his native Chile, from 1973-1975, Prof. Zalaquett organized and headed the Legal Aid Department of the ecumenical "Comité de Cooperación Para la Paz en Chile" (later known as "Vicaría de la Solidaridad"). The department provided legal aid to thousands of political prisoners in Chile following the September 1973 coup d'état. Exiled by the military government, he served various leadership positions with Amnesty International over two decades, including Deputy Secretary General and Chair of its International Standing Committee.

Prof. Zalaquett's experience with other international human rights organizations includes serving as a member of the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights of the OAS, acting as President of that body from 2003-2004. He has participated in truth commissions and advised governments on issues of justice and reconciliation in Argentina, El Salvador, Peru, Yugoslavia, and Uganda, among many others. In the academic sphere, he teaches at universities in Chile and around the world.

Prof. Zalaquett is a visiting Professor at Notre Dame Law School, his visit co-sponsored by the Kellogg Institute for International Studies. Prof. Zalaquett's address will be the inaugural CCHR Lewers Lecture, delivered in honor of Fr. William Lewers, C.S.C. Fr. “The Law and Economics of Intellectual Property in the Digital Age: The Limits of Analysis” Book Roundtable

All Day

Location: Notre Dame London Law Centre

The Notre Dame Research Program on Law and Market Behavior is bringing together a diverse group of excellent scholars encompassing different approaches to IP as well as related fields such as property and antitrust to engage in a critical and constructive discussion of the recently published book by Niva Elkin-Koren and Eli Satzberger on “The Law and Economics of Intellectual Property in the Digital Age: The Limits of Analysis.” This insightful and broad-ranging work offers an excellent platform for the roundtable’s examination of some of the major challenges presently at the forefront of IP law and economics.

The book explores the economic analysis of intellectual property law, with a special emphasis on the Law and Economics of informational goods in light of the past decade’s technological revolution. In recent years there has been massive growth in Law and Economics literature focusing on intellectual property on both normative and positive levels of analysis. The economic approach to intellectual property is often described as a monolithic, coherent approach that may differ only as it is applied to a particular case. Yet the growing literature of Law and Economics in intellectual property does not speak in one voice. The economic discourse used in legal scholarship and in policy-making encompasses several strands, each reflecting a fundamentally different approach to the economics of informational works, and each grounded in a different ideology or methodological paradigm. The book delineates the various economic approaches taken and analyzes their tenets. It maps the fundamental concepts and the theoretical foundation of current economic analysis of intellectual property law. In order to fully understand the ramifications of using economic analysis of law in policy-making, in so doing, one begins to appreciate the limitations of the current frameworks in confronting the challenges of the information revolution. The book also addresses the fundamental adjustments in the methodology and underlying assumptions that must be employed in order for the economic approach to remain a useful analytical framework for addressing IPR in the information age.

Roundtable Participants:

Michael Abramowitz, George Washington University
 Tanya Aspin, Dickson Poon School of Law at King's College London
 Jonei Bently, Emmanuel College, Cambridge
 Dan Burk, UC Irvine School of Law
 Robert Burrell, University of Western Australia

CCHR: Human and Sexual Trafficking Awareness Training

Fri Feb 7, 2014, 12:30PM - 2:30PMLocation: Room 1140

CCHR will host a training session aimed at helping individuals and businesses identify signs of human trafficking. The training program, an initiative of the Indiana Attorney General's office, is designed to enhance the ability to identify victims of human and sexual trafficking, and provide resources to assist victims when identified.

According to statistics from the Indiana Attorney General's office, approximately 16,000 men, women and children are trafficked into the United States and 200,000 children are victims of commercial sexual trafficking each year.

The Center for Civil & Human Rights has formed a working group to study anti-human trafficking initiatives in the Notre Dame/Saint Mary's College communities. The upcoming training session is an outcome of that collaborative effort. If you or your campus organization are interested in attending the training session, or to join the Trafficking Study Group, please send an email to Kevin Fye at CCHR at Kevin.E.Fye@nd.edu.

Co-sponsored by The Center for Social Concerns and Student Government

Does the World Need a Treaty on Business and Human Rights? Weighing the Pros and Cons

Wed May 14, 2014, 6:00PM - 7:45PM

Location: Notre Dame London Law Centre, One Suffolk Street, London, SW1Y 4HG

University of Notre Dame Law School and Business & Human Rights Resource Centre cordially invite you to their first annual London human rights speaker series event.

Currently the question of a binding instrument on business and human rights is the topic of intense international debate. A proposal at the UN for a Treaty has received the support of over 70 governments and over one hundred regional and international NGOs. At the same time, it has received a high degree of scepticism by many experts, developed country governments, and international business associations.

Join us to discuss this issue with a high-level panel of experts!

Main speakers:

Introduction of Topic: Professor Doug Cassel, Notre Dame Law School

Proponent: Professor Chip Pitts, Lecturer in Law at Stanford Law School, Advisor to the UN Global Compact

Commentator: Professor Sheldon Leader, Essex University

Sceptic: Chris Esdalle, Leigh Day

Commentator: Dr Nadia Bernaz, Middlesex University

Reflections: Michael Addo, UN Working Group on business and human rights

There will be 30 minutes for questions & answers, and a post-event reception for all who wish to attend.

Please RSVP to Sam Whannel: whannel@business-humanrights.org by 1 May 2014.

The Google Book Project: Antitrust and Intellectual Property Perspectives

All Day

Location: Notre Dame in London

■ In 2004, Google entered into agreements with several major research libraries to digitally copy books and other writings in their collections. This project would have many benefits, including increasing availability of these materials and preservation of older and out-of-print works. However, Google had not obtained the permission of the copyright owners of those works—including authors and publishers. ■ In 2005, they brought a class action against Google in the Southern District of New York, alleging a variety of copyright and antitrust theories.

■ In 2008, the parties entered into a lengthy proposed settlement agreement. After hearings and extensive commentary, in 2011, the court rejected the proposed settlement. Continuing discussions are ongoing among the parties, while legislative relief from Congress is also being pursued.

The antitrust and intellectual property issues raised by the Google Book project and the judicial challenge will be discussed on March 4 by a panel consisting of Doctor Ioannis Lianos of University College London and Professor Jonathan Griffiths of Queen Mary University of London, with Professor Joseph Bauer of Notre Dame Law School serving as moderator.

In the past two decades, more than 2,000 Catholic elementary and secondary schools have closed in the United States, and more than 4,500 charter schools have opened. With a particular emphasis on Catholic school closures, Lost Classroom, Lost Community examines the implications of these dramatic shifts in the urban educational landscape.

More than just educational institutions, Catholic schools promote the development of social capital—the social networks and mutual trust that form the foundation of safe and cohesive communities. Drawing on data from the Project on Human Development in Chicago Neighborhoods and crime reports collected at the police beat or census tract level in Chicago, Philadelphia, and Los Angeles, Professors Brinig and Garrett demonstrate that the loss of Catholic schools triggers disorder, crime, and an overall decline in community cohesiveness, and suggest that new charter schools fail to fill the gaps left behind.

This book shows that the closing of Catholic schools harms the very communities they were created to bring together and serve and has important implications for education policy debates.

Ron Fraper, Governor of the State of Old York
Petitioners

v

Association of Beverage Producers and Retailers
Respondents

SYNOPSIS

On March 3, 2012, Defendant Ron Fraper, the Governor of the State of Old York, signed the Comprehensive Beverage and Bottle Act of 2012 (the "2012 Act"). Section 4 of the Act requires retailers of sugar sweetened beverages to post a two-foot wide by two-foot tall sign at all places where such beverages are displayed. The sign contains two statements pertaining to sugar sweetened beverages, one stating "You Have to Walk 3 Miles To Burn Off The Calories In One 20oz. Soda," and the other stating "The Consumption Of Sugary Drinks Can Lead To Obesity, Diabetes, Cardiovascular Disease, And Tooth Decay." The Association of Beverage Producers and Retailers is the Plaintiff in this case. Their members include retailers affected by this provision. Those retailers contend that they are being forced to make statements with which they do not agree and which may cause them to lose profits due to reduced beverage sales. Plaintiff sued the Governor on behalf of its member retailers seeking declaratory and injunctive relief under the First Amendment.

Plaintiff also claims that the 2012 Act is unconstitutional as a violation of the dormant Commerce Clause. Pursuant to the State of Old York Bottle Deposit Act of 2000 (the "2000 Act"), the State sought to reduce litter and provide an incentive to recycle by requiring distributors and retailers in the State of Old York to collect a refundable deposit of ten (10) cents on certain beverage containers at the point of sale. Consumers could later obtain a refund of the deposit by returning the empty container to a retailer or to a reverse vending machine. The retailers, in turn, could return the empty containers to beverage distributors or manufacturers to obtain the ten cent refund. This 10 cents refund was greater than the refund offered by some neighboring states and led to the public purchasing beverages out of state and returning them to Old York for a (higher) refund. To combat this problem, the 2012 Act requires bottles and cans sold in Old York to contain a unique, state-specific identifying mark. Redemption can occur in Old York only for beverages that display the mark. The 2012 Act also made it illegal to sell containers with the Old York mark outside of Old York. Plaintiff alleges this unique mark requirement purports to unconstitutionally regulate interstate commerce.

Both parties filed cross motions for Summary Judgment. The District Court found that requiring retailers to post the sign did not violate their First Amendment rights.

The District Court further found that Old York's "unique mark" requirement did not violate the Dormant Commerce clause. Defendant's Motion for Summary Judgment was granted by the Court.

The Twelfth Circuit reversed the decision of the District Court.

The Supreme Court granted certiorari on the following two issues:

- Did the Twelfth Circuit properly hold that the Comprehensive Beverage and Bottle Act of 2012's posting requirement violates Respondent's First Amendment rights?
- Did the Twelfth Circuit properly hold that the Comprehensive Beverage and Bottle Act of 2012's "unique mark" requirement violates the dormant Commerce Clause?

The Indiana Court of Appeals Oral Argument

Time: Wed Oct 29, 2014, 1:00PM - 2:00PM Location: McCartan Courtroom

The Indiana Court of Appeals will hold oral argument in the McCartan Courtroom.

The scheduled panel is Chief Judge Nancy H. Vaidik, Judge Michael P. Barnes and Judge Terry A. Crone.

The case

Gentry, Albert C., II v. Bloomquist, Sean R.

32A01-1406-CT-226

In May 2012, eighteen-year-old Sean Bloomquist ("Bloomquist") hosted a party at his father's home. Bloomquist's father and stepmother were not at home and were unaware of the party. Bloomquist, seventeen-year-old Nathan Gentry ("Nathan"), and a third teenager gave money to nineteen-year-old Dustin Stamm ("Stamm") to purchase alcohol. Stamm went by himself to purchase the alcohol and returned to Bloomquist's home with a case of beer, which was kept in Stamm's open car trunk during the party. According to seventeen-year-old party guest Christopher Hubbard ("Hubbard"), the beer was already there when he arrived, and Bloomquist told him that he could have some. Hubbard drank some beer, went to bed in Bloomquist's home between 12:00 and 2:00 a.m., and awoke at 8:00 the next morning. Half an hour later, as Hubbard was driving Nathan and others to another partygoer's softball practice, his car left the road and hit a tree. Nathan died as a result of the collision. Nathan's father, Albert C. Gentry, II ("Gentry"), filed a complaint for damages against Bloomquist and others. The complaint alleged that Bloomquist was civilly liable because he violated Indiana Code Section 7-1-5-7-8, which makes it unlawful for a person to "recklessly, knowingly, or intentionally sell, barter, exchange, provide, or furnish an alcoholic beverage to a minor," as well as Indiana Code Section 7-1-5-10-15, which makes it unlawful for a person to sell, barter, deliver, or give away an alcoholic beverage to another person who he knows is intoxicated. Indiana Code Section 7-1-5-10-15-5 defines "furnish" as including "barter, deliver, sell, exchange, provide, or give away." Bloomquist filed a motion for summary judgment asserting that he did not "furnish" an alcoholic beverage to Hubbard. The trial court granted Bloomquist's motion. On appeal, Gentry contends that the trial court erred in granting Bloomquist's summary judgment motion because genuine issues of material fact exist regarding whether Bloomquist "furnished" an alcoholic beverage to Hubbard.

IP Workshop: Greg Dolin - Dubious Patent Reform

Time Mon Nov 10, 2014, 12:30PM – 1:45PM Location Room 2172

“Dubious Patent Reform”

The 2011 America Invents Act sought to improve the American patent system by creating new procedures for reviewing already issued patents. Professor Gregory Dolin, University of Baltimore School of Law, argues that, in crafting this legislation, Congress failed to heed the lessons of history and, as a result, created the potential for serious and systematic abuses. Students and faculty are invited to join for Professor Dolin's presentation and a discussion of patent reform to follow. He will be presenting the paper Dubious Patent Reform.

65th Annual Moot Court Showcase Argument

For Petitioners: Patrick R. Duffey, Sarah J. Gallo, Jae Y. Kim - Brief Writer

For Respondents: Allison R. Burke, Gregory L. Chafuen, Kyle R. Ratliff - Brief Writer

Susan E. Benson and Ronald Coleman
Petitioners

vs.

Vincent Gray
Mayor for the District of Columbia

Kaya Henderson
Chancellor of the District of Columbia Public Schools
Respondents

SYNOPSIS

In an effort to reduce gun violence in D.C. schools, Respondent Vincent Gray, Mayor of Washington D.C., signed the D.C. Public Schools Safety Act ("PSSA") in 2011. Section 4 of PSSA requires full-time teachers and administrators to carry a school-issued gun during school hours. All participating faculty must complete at least 20 hours of firearms training, submit to a criminal record check, and maintain registration with the local police department. PSSA expressly states that eligible faculty members who refuse to carry a firearm are terminated. PSSA has two exceptions. First, PSSA exempts those indicted or convicted for a serious crime. Second, the Act exempts those unable, due to a mental or physical disability, to safely carry a firearm.

In the present controversy, Petitioner Susan Benson is a member of the Religious Society of Friends, also known as the Quakers. Quaker adherents are forbidden from using or threatening violence against another person. Petitioner Benson's request for a religious exemption was denied and she was eventually terminated for refusing to carry a gun. Petitioner Ronald Coleman adheres to pacifism, which proscribes the use of violence against others. As a conscientious objector, Petitioner Coleman's requests for an exemption were denied, and he was terminated.

Petitioner Benson filed a lawsuit against the Government in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia. In her complaint, she alleged that PSSA, as applied to her, violates the Free Exercise Clause and the Religious Freedom Restoration Act ("RFRA"). Petitioner Coleman also filed a lawsuit claiming PSSA violates RFRA because it protects non-religious, moral beliefs. The District Court granted summary judgment in favor of the Government, and the D.C. Circuit affirmed the decision.

The Supreme Court granted certiorari on the following three issues:

1. Whether the DC Public Schools Safety Act of 2012 violates the Religious Freedom Restoration Act, 42 U.S.C. § 2000bb, by requiring a schoolteacher with religious objections to carry a firearm during school hours?
2. Whether the DC Public Schools Safety Act of 2012 violates the Free Exercise Clause of the First Amendment by requiring a teacher with religious objections to carry a firearm during school hours, even though the Act exempts certain other teachers from that obligation?
3. Whether the DC Public Schools Safety Act of 2012 violates the Religious Freedom Restoration Act, 42 U.S.C. § 2000bb, by requiring a schoolteacher with moral objections to carry a firearm during school hours?

He began his judicial career as a magistrate judge with the Middle District of Alabama in 1983 and was nominated to an Article III judgeship by President Ronald Reagan in 1986 to a seat vacated by Robert Varner. Judge Dubina left the Middle District of Alabama in October 1990 when he was elevated to the Eleventh Circuit Court of Appeals to fill a seat vacated by Robert Smith Vance.

Honorable Patricia O'Brien Cotter

Judge Patricia O'Brien Cotter was elected for an eight-year term to the Montana Supreme Court in 2000, and reelected in 2008. From 1996 to 1998, Cotter served as chair of Montana's lawyer representatives to the Ninth Circuit Judicial Conference. In 1998, she was chosen as one of five Ninth Circuit lawyers to serve on the Executive Committee for the Conference.

A South Bend native, Cotter graduated with honors from Western Michigan University with a BS in Political Science and History in 1972. She obtained her JD from Notre Dame Law School in 1977. After law school, he was in private practice, and served indigent clients while employed by the Federal Public Defender's Office, before returning to private practice in Miami, Florida. Judge Moreno served on the boards of Legal Services of Greater Miami, the Cuban American Bar Association's Pro Bono Program, and Jnted Way. He received the Pro Bono Service Award of the Cuban American Bar Association and United Way's "People Helping People" Award. Symposium on Limiting Shareholder Rights: Entrenching Management or Establishing Commitments?

Time: Tue Apr 14, 2015, All Day Location: Eck Hall of Law

Traditional agency theory interprets limits to shareholder rights as entrenching corporate management and as likely to lower shareholder value. At this symposium, some new results challenging this interpretation are presented and discussed. If shareholders have limited information and limited commitment to the firm, this may threaten firms engaged in long-term projects and firms dependent on long-term relationships with other stakeholders.

This LAMB conference will bring together a panel of experts, both scholars in corporate law and corporate finance and practicing lawyers, to present new empirical evidence in this area and discuss its implications for corporate law and governance.

This event is open to all.

LAMB International Research Network Conference: Junior Scholars in Behavioral and Experimental Law and Economics

Time: Fri Jul 17, 2015, All Day Location: Dublin, Ireland

The Notre Dame Research Program on Law and Market Behavior (ND LAMB) is convening a junior and senior scholars' conference, LAMB International Research Network Conference: Junior Scholars Behavioral and Experimental Law and Economics, at Notre Dame's global gateway in Dublin, Ireland on July 17-18, 2015.

This unique event aims to bring together junior researchers, advanced Ph.D. candidates, postdocs, and junior faculty to present their ongoing research to an audience of their peers and a select group of senior scholars in these fields. During the conference, participants will receive feedback on their work, suggestions for future research, and an opportunity to network with like-minded researchers.

The Dublin event is part of an ongoing series of international activities aimed at fostering the development of a behavioral and experimental legal community in Europe and outside the U.S. more generally.

Small Business Pro Bono Project Information Meeting

Time Fri Sep 4, 2015, 12:30PM - 1:00PM Location Room 2108

Up to fifteen 2L and 3L students are invited to participate in the Small Business Pro Bono project, a partnership among the Law School, Mendoza School of Business, and the St. Joseph County Bar Association's Pro Bono Committee. Small teams of law students and pro bono attorneys will conduct a legal analysis and provide advice to small business owners in South Bend this fall. This is an excellent opportunity to learn about legal issues facing businesses and to work on your legal interviewing, analysis, and counseling skills while being mentored by a practicing attorney. The project will run through the fall semester and will require a commitment of 30-40 total hours per student.

CDO: Suing the Government is a Growth Industry: How to make the most from your law degree with a career in public-interest law.

CDO: Suing the Government is a Growth Industry: How to make the most from your law degree with a career in public-interest law

Time Thu Oct 8, 2015, 12:30PM - 1:30PM Location Room 1130

Description Sometimes law students are told they have two options: a miserable life earning decent money at a law firm, or a rewarding job coupled with a vow of poverty. This isn't true. On October 8, Jeff Rowes, a senior attorney with the Institute for Justice, will discuss his public-interest career and steps you can take to have a career at IJ. The Institute for Justice, the nation's leading libertarian public-interest law firm, offers the best of both worlds: cutting-edge constitutional litigation on issues that actually matter to real people, combined with competitive pay. Sound interesting? Learn what steps you can take now to put yourself on a path to litigating the kind of cases you read about in the newspaper and your casebooks.

Lunch will be provided to those that RSVP! <http://bit.ly/1q9cPGd>

Galilee: Justice at Work Informational Meeting

Time Wed Sep 9, 2015, 12:30PM - 1:30PM Location McCartan Courtroom

I invite all J.D. and LL.M. students to join me and the student leadership team for an informational meeting on Galilee: Justice at Work. Galilee is an elective one-credit course that allows students to see the law in action during three-day immersions around the country over the winter break. Most NDLS students in recent years have taken advantage of this extraordinary experience. After a semester of intense academic work, Galilee introduces students to the practice of law in cities where they may be interested in working. Students meet and shadow lawyers, judges, law enforcement officials and others grappling with difficult legal and social issues. The program brings the law alive, helps students think about their career paths, and allows students to network with NDLS alumni and other lawyers while forming deeper bonds with fellow law students.

Galilee student leaders will discuss their experiences and share the details of this year's program. Here is a link to a brief video created by the student leaders: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=2FbPoRk08O8&feature=youtu.be>

"The Presidential Election and the Judiciary," Former Indiana Chief Justice Hon. Randall T. Shepard

Time Mon Sep 17, 2012, 12:30PM - 1:30PM Location 1140 Eck Hall of Law

University of Notre Dame Law School, the American Constitution Society, and the Federalist Society are honored to host retired Indiana Supreme Court Chief Justice, the Honorable Randall T. Shepard.

A Princeton, Yale, and UVA graduate, Justice Shepard was appointed to the Indiana Supreme Court in 1985. In 1987, at the age of 41, Justice Shepard was appointed as the youngest Chief Justice in Indiana history, serving a quarter century, and retiring in March of this year.

Justice Shepard will deliver remarks, under the auspices of the Clynes Chair Lecture Series, on the subject of, "The Presidential Election and the Judiciary." Professor A.J. Bellia will serve as interlocutor.

As Justice Shepard points out: "The Presidency and the Judiciary were a very hot topic during the Republican primaries, and for that matter during the 2008 campaign of Barack Obama. For the moment at least, these debates about the courts have largely fallen away. Were those earlier rhetorical engagements just fleeting election-year fluff, now abandoned because they didn't move the polls, or is there a new battle to be fought in the weeks ahead?"

Kirkland & Ellis: Restructuring 101

Time Thu Apr 21, 2016, 12:30PM - 1:30PM Location 1130 Eck Hall of Law

Kirkland & Ellis LLP will be sending senior partner Ryan Bennett (Notre Dame Law class of 2000) from their Chicago office to Notre Dame on Thursday April 21 to present specifically on his Corporate Restructuring practice, as well as more generally on what it is like to work for a major law firm. He has generously offered to provide lunch, Kirkland swag, and an allotment of time at the end of his presentation to answer any and all questions that students may have for him.

This event will be a great opportunity for both litigation and transaction focused students to learn about law firm life, encounter an interesting area of the law, and meet an attorney that will be attending the Meet the Employers Reception and who will be returning to Notre Dame over the next few months looking to recruit our students.

Kirkland & Ellis: Restructuring 101

Time Thu Apr 21, 2016, 12:30PM - 1:30PM Location 1130 Eck Hall of Law

Kirkland & Ellis LLP will be sending senior partner Ryan Bennett (Notre Dame Law class of 2000) from their Chicago office to Notre Dame on Thursday April 21 to present specifically on his Corporate Restructuring practice, as well as more generally on what it is like to work for a major law firm. He has generously offered to provide lunch, Kirkland & Ellis swag, and an allotment of time at the end of his presentation to answer any and all questions that students may have for him.

This event will be a great opportunity for both litigation and transaction focused students to learn about law firm life, encounter an interesting area of the law, and meet an attorney that will be attending the Meet the Employers Reception and who will be returning to Notre Dame over the next few months looking to recruit our students.

Fifteen Years After the 9/11 Terrorist Attacks: Reassessing the Nature of the Threat and Response to Global Terrorism

Time Thu Sep 22, 2016, 9:00AM - 4:30PM Location McCartan Courtroom

Notre Dame Law School, in conjunction with the Keough School of Global Affairs, Kroc Institute for International Peace Studies, and Notre Dame International Security Center, is hosting a conference entitled "Fifteen Years After the 9/11 Terrorist Attacks: Reassessing the Nature of the Threat of International Terrorism and the Domestic and Global Response."

The conference is intended to commemorate the fifteen-year anniversary of the September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks that took the lives of approximately 3,000 innocent civilians.

Most law school and undergraduate students were children on September 11, 2001, and have a limited understanding and appreciation of the geopolitical impact of the 9/11 terror attacks. The conference will provide a forum to educate these students on important national security, civil liberties, and domestic and foreign policy issues implicated by the tragic events of 9/11.

The conference will also provide a forum for prominent experts to examine how the threat of international terrorism has evolved and metastasized since September 11, 2001. Further, the conference will explore the domestic and international response to the threat of international terrorism, and the effectiveness of those counter-terrorism efforts.

Reception to follow in Eck Commons

United States of America
Respondents

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, Gerrard Leomund, worked for the Centers for Disease Control ("CDC") studying infectious diseases. As part of his duties, he logged into the CDC Secure Database in order to gain access to the database; he had to assent to the Terms of Use restrictions.

In 2013, the CDC began documenting the spread of a new disease.

Phyresis: Recognizing the danger, Leomund demanded the CDC release information of the disease to the public. Leomund's supervisor, Dana Gant, refused his request. After he demanded the information's release again, she transferred him to another division. Leomund retained his credentials to the database. After the transfer, confidential Phyresis data was released to the public via a website.

Gant contacted FBI officials, who investigated Leomund by first setting up a pole camera outside his home for five days. Then they deployed license plate scanners to scan the location of Leomund's license plate. The scanners generated 12 hits over 10 days. Lastly, the FBI flew a drone equipped with a camera that could zoom into Leomund's property. It showed Leomund and a CDC colleague huddled over a CDC document. The two were arrested, and Leomund confessed to his wrongdoing.

The United States charged Leomund with violating the Computer Fraud and Abuse Act ("CFAA") for allegedly illegally accessing the database.

Leomund filed a motion to dismiss the charge arguing that his interaction with the database did not constitute access without authorization or exceeding authorized access. Leomund also filed a motion to suppress all evidence obtained, arguing the FBI engaged in an unlawful search without a warrant in violation of the Fourth Amendment.

The Supreme Court granted certiorari on three issues:

1. Does the term "without authorization" in the CFAA contemplate unauthorized access, or unauthorized use?
2. Can the term "exceeds authorized access" in the CFAA determine an employee has exceeded his or her authorized access by a resort to agency principles?
3. Can potentially reasonable searches under the Fourth Amendment be rendered unreasonable when considered in the aggregate?

Suing the Government Is A Growth Industry: How to Make the Most From Your Law Degree And Your Life with a Career in Public-Interest Law: A Conversation with the Institute for Justice

Suing the Government Is A Growth Industry: How to Make the Most From Your Law Degree (And Your Life) with a Career in Public-Interest Law: A Conversation with the Institute for Justice

Time: Tue Oct 3, 2017, 12:30PM - 1:30PM Location: 1140 Eck Hall of Law

Sometimes law students are told they have two options: a miserable life earning decent money at a law firm, or a rewarding job coupled with a vow of poverty. This isn't true. On Tuesday, October 3, Bob McNamara, a Senior Attorney with the Institute for Justice, will discuss his public-interest career and steps you can take to have a career at IJ. Matt Curtis, a 2L who spent his last summer working at IJ in DC, will speak about his summer experience. The Institute for Justice, the nation's leading libertarian public-interest law firm, offers the best of both worlds: cutting-edge constitutional litigation on issues that actually matter to real people, combined with competitive pay. Sound interesting? Learn what steps you can take to put yourself on a path to litigating the kind of cases you read about in the newspaper and your casebooks.

Birthright Citizens: Winners and Losers in the Long History of the Fourteenth Amendment

Time: Mon Nov 6, 2017, 12:30PM - 1:30PM Location: 1130 Eck Hall of Law

DEAN'S LECTURE ON RACE, LAW, AND SOCIETY, NOTRE DAME LAW SCHOOL

Martha Jones

*The Society of Black Alumni Professor of History
Johns Hopkins University*

It is difficult to point to any moment during the past two centuries when the principle of birthright citizenship was not the subject of debate. The Reconstruction-era ratification of the Fourteenth Amendment, in this sense, is best understood as an important though not definitive moment in the history of birthright. The import and the limits of events in 1867-68 followed on the heels of antebellum debates over the status of free African Americans. And they were followed by continued uncertainty about birthright when, at the century's close, questions plagued the children of Chinese immigrants because their parents were ineligible for naturalization. The Fourteenth Amendment largely resolved the citizenship dilemma former slaves faced. It did less well for the U.S.-born children of immigrants who, in the 1890s and today, face questions about where they are situated along the nation's borders of belonging.

Co-sponsored by The Center for Civil and Human Rights

Lunch will be served. Undergraduates welcome.

Professor Jones is the author of All Bound Up Together: The Woman Question in African American Public Culture, 1830-1900 (2007,) co-editor of Toward an Intellectual History of Black Women (2015,) and author of the forthcoming Birthright Citizens: A History of Race and Rights in Antebellum America (Cambridge University Press, 2017). Her articles have appeared in the Law and History Review, the Journal of the Civil War Era, the North Carolina Law Review, the American Journal of Legal History, and numerous edited collections. Professor Jones has held fellowships from the National Humanities Center, the National Constitutional Center, the Gilder Lehrman Institute, the University of Pennsylvania Law School, and the Library Company of Philadelphia.

The Future of Gitmo and Military Tribunals in the Trump Administration

Time: Thu Oct 26, 2017, 12:30PM - 2:00PM Location: McCartan Courtroom

Barack Obama pledged in 2008 to close Guantanamo Bay detention camp, an effort that failed under the pressure of intense bipartisan opposition. The Trump administration, by contrast, has signaled its eagerness to expand the number of detainees at the facility, which is also known as Gitmo. This guest panel will explore potential policy changes surrounding Guantanamo, the use of military tribunals, and the legal issues and challenges implicated.

Daniel J. Dell'Orto, who was principal deputy general counsel for the Department of Defense from June 2000 to March 2009 and the Department of Defense's acting general counsel in 2001 and again from March 2008 to February 2009, will discuss the justification of the creation of Gitmo after the 9/11 attack and the use of military tribunals to prosecuting suspected terrorists.

Brian P. Nicholson, trial attorney in the Office of International Affairs in the Criminal Division of the U.S. Department of Justice, will discuss his time as an Army judge advocate general (JAG) and his most recent case as military defense counsel for Khalid Sheikh Mohammed, the alleged mastermind of the 9/11 terrorist attacks.

Fall Conference 2017

Time Fri Nov 10, 2017, All Day
 Location Notre Dame Conference Center

Each year on the campus of Notre Dame, the Center hosts its interdisciplinary Fall Conference, the most important venue for truly fruitful dialogue and exchange among the world's leading Catholic thinkers, as well as those from other traditions, on pressing and vexed questions of ethics, culture, and public policy. The Conference annually attracts more than eight hundred participants and features nearly one hundred paper presentations in disciplines ranging from philosophy, theology, political theory, and law to history, economics, science, and the arts. Recent past speakers include Nobel Laureate James Heckman, Alasdair MacIntyre, John Finnis, Mary Ann Glendon, Rémi Brague, Charles Taylor, Michael Sandel, and Jean Bethke Elshtain.

The Notre Dame Center for Ethics and Culture's 18th Annual Fall Conference will explore the perennial problem of good and evil, the significance of this distinction for human flourishing and the common good, and the place of good and evil in the theory and practice of various academic disciplines. Confirmed speakers include Harvey Mansfield, Jacqueline Rivers, Gary Anderson, James Hankins, Ann Astell, Alasdair MacIntyre, John Finnis, and Elizabeth Levy.

The Notre Dame Center for Ethics and Culture is committed to sharing the richness of the Catholic moral and intellectual tradition through teaching, research, and dialogue, at the highest level and across a range of disciplines.

2017 Law Review Symposium

2017 Law Review Symposium

Time: Fri Nov 10, 2017, 8:00AM - 5:00PM
Location: McCartan Courtroom

On Friday, November 10, 2017 Volume 93 of the Notre Dame Law Review will host its annual Symposium in the Patrick F. McCartan Courtroom. This year's Symposium is titled Administrative Lawmaking in the 21st Century. More information is available at the Law Review's website.

The Symposium will look forward to the future with respect to administrative law. Panels of leading academics and distinguished practitioners will reflect on the fact that we are arguably at a crossroads in how we make regulatory law and policy — and address, among other issues, the effect this has on how we design and staff administrative agencies, Chevron Step Two's domain, nonenforcement of the law, and the meaning of provisions limiting presidential removal of administrative officers.

This year's keynote speaker is the Hon. Judge Thomas M. Hardiman of the United States Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit. Judge Hardiman was appointed to the U.S. District Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania in 2003 by President George W. Bush. In 2007, President George W. Bush nominated him to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit. Judge Hardiman will offer a judge's perspective on administrative lawmaking in the United States and reflect on the topics addressed by the Symposium contributors.

The Symposium also brings together a distinguished group of administrative law scholars and practitioners who will present their papers on the present state and future of administrative law, followed by a moderator-led discussion.

Law, Religion, and Politics: Understanding the Separation of Church and State

Time: Mon Sep 26, 2016, 5:00PM – 7:00PM

Location: Sullivan & Worcester One Post Office Square 21st Floor Boston, Ma 02109

The Notre Dame Club of Greater Boston, Notre Dame Law School, and the Boston Notre Dame Lawyer's Committee invite you to attend a Hesburgh Lecture Series event featuring Professor Richard W. Garnett.

In America, the freedom of religion is foundational and fundamental. Our Constitution, it is often said, calls for a "separation of church and state." In the context of our current political culture, how should we understand this prescription, and what does it mean for us as leaders and professionals in this community?

Join the local Notre Dame legal community and members of the broader Notre Dame Club of Greater Boston for an evening of camaraderie and what promises to be an interesting discussion from one of the most dynamic faculty members at Notre Dame Law School.

Fighting for Fair Housing: A conference on the 50th anniversary of the Fair Housing Act

Time: Fri Apr 20, 2018, 9:30AM - 4:00PM Location: Notre Dame Law School

The Fighting for Fair Housing Conference marks the 50th anniversary of the enactment of the Fair Housing Act, which outlawed housing discrimination across the United States. We will look back at the discriminatory policies that inspired the act, and we will discuss the act itself, what it has accomplished and the challenges of today. Academics, housing advocates, attorneys, and community members will come together in a call to action to once again tackle the issues of housing discrimination.

Law Review Symposium

Time: Fri Nov 1, 2013, 9:00AM - 2:00PM Location: McCartan Courtroom

The Evolution of Theory: Discerning the Catalysts of Constitutional Change

The Symposium will delve into the factors of constitutional doctrinal shifts, focusing on the question of whether the evolution of constitutional theory is driven by external pressures—such as economics, politics, culture, and social movements—or by an internal dialectic about constitutional meaning.

Ultimately, it looks to shed light on this question by exploring the most salient points of constitutional development and change in the 20th century.

Starting at 9:00 am, the Symposium will have three panels of speakers that focus on the following eras: the Lochner/New Deal “switch in time,” the rights revolution of the Warren and Burger Courts, and the formalist revival of the Rehnquist and Roberts Courts.

Our speakers for the panels are the following:

Lochner/New Deal: David Bernstein, Barry Cushman, Samuel Olken, with commentary by William K. Kelley

Warren and Burger Courts: Lucas Powe, Brad Snyder, Ryan Williams, with commentary by David Strauss

Rehnquist and Roberts Courts: Kurt Lash, Stephen Sachs, Keith Whittington, with commentary by John Manning

The keynote address will be given by Judge Brett Kavanaugh.
